FOREWORD

In this issue of the Stone Fort we wish to give grateful recognition to the heritage left us by aboriginal man, the Tejas Indian, who three hundred years ago, like shadows of the dawn on a misty autumn morning, here measured off their days in peace. The red man, calm beneath the peace of heaven, the sky his sanctuary, companion of the pines and moaning winds and hills and laughing streams, pursued his stolid way, perhaps in sloth about his tent, perhaps in chase of game to fill his simple wants, perhaps in war to test his strength, or make a name, or guard the store that lavish nature freely gave. His day has passed and gone. The red man took his squaw, his horse, his dog and vanished like silent mist, but tokens of his life remain forever. He has left his mark upon our pine trees, left his name upon our rivers, left romance in many a legend, left his poetry upon our flowers.

DEDICATION

To the sacrifices of the parents of the students of Stephen F. Austin State Teachers College who have this year, more than in former years, denied themselves in order that we might receive the benefits of an education, this volume of the Stone Fort is affectionately dedicated.

Speaking of Billy's, we have Billy Parsons Chemistry Major. Where did Dixie get that cigarette? In the lower left we have a puzzle picture. Puzzle: Find the faculty member.

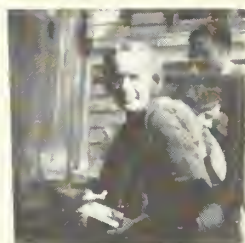

Believe it or not, Stan McKewen is a man-about-town. Florence discusses the new hog law with "Hog" Parrish and Virgil Prince. Paul Street poses for the camera while Bob and Mr. Wisely talk business. Weller gets a lecture from Miss Hellen on wearing torn shirts to school. We couldn't get a picture of Willie Gribble, so Charles' other dogs pose. C. C. Over on page 40 we see Frances Muller, other member of the Street and Muller Firm. Charles DeBlieux, Florence Birdwell, and a horse. (The horse is in the lower left of the picture.) Colonel Weller is resting. (He is always resting.) Ben Stripling and Francis Schott practicing the art they so fervently learned at A. and M. The Lufkin girls fall for it, too. ## Resume of the 1932 Football Season

Playing their first game after only a few day's workout, the Lumberjacks showed up to a disadvantage against Lon Morris and went down before the Bearkats 19—0. Robb and McKewen stood out for the Axmen. The Purple and White should have won the game but the Jacksonville boys continued to exercise their jinx over the 'Jacks and decisively outscored the local warriors.

In the next encounter the Lumberjacks suffered a defeat at the hands of the Commerce Lions that was very hard to take. The game was even more bitterly fought than the 8—6 score indicates, for the Axmen roundly outplayed the Lions through the entire 60 minutes. The Purple clad boys showed great improvement in their team play over the last engagement. The 'Jacks dominated the entire play. So versatile, in fact, was their attack that they kept the ball inside the Lion 20 yard line most of the time. The game was misery for the spectators who saw a freak safety for the Lions keep the Lumberjacks from attempting a field goal and at the same time give the game to Commerce.

On the following week-end the Lumbermen pitched camp in San Marcos for a tussle with the Bobcats. The Purple thrusts were in vain however, as the 'Jacks lost their second straight game by a 19—0 score. Although disappointing, this defeat did not dismay the Purple gridmen who still have great respect for the Hill-top boys. The 'Jacks have scored on the Bobcats only once and that was in '29. The Axmen were hitting hard that day but the scoring machine of the Cats was a little too much for the East Texans to cope with.

One week later they returned from Natchitoches s m a r t i n g from their third defeat by 19—0. Perhaps the only way to explain this loss is to say that the 'Jacks had an off day, because for three quarters of hard fought football the score was deadlocked 0—0. It was a matter of outlasting the opponents, and in this matter of endurance the Demons were successful. Many substitutions were made during the game, and one thing that kept both sides from scoring was the excessive number of penalties inflicted. The 'Jacks offer no alibi, but their leader, Coach White, says that the fight the boys put up that day should have meant victory.

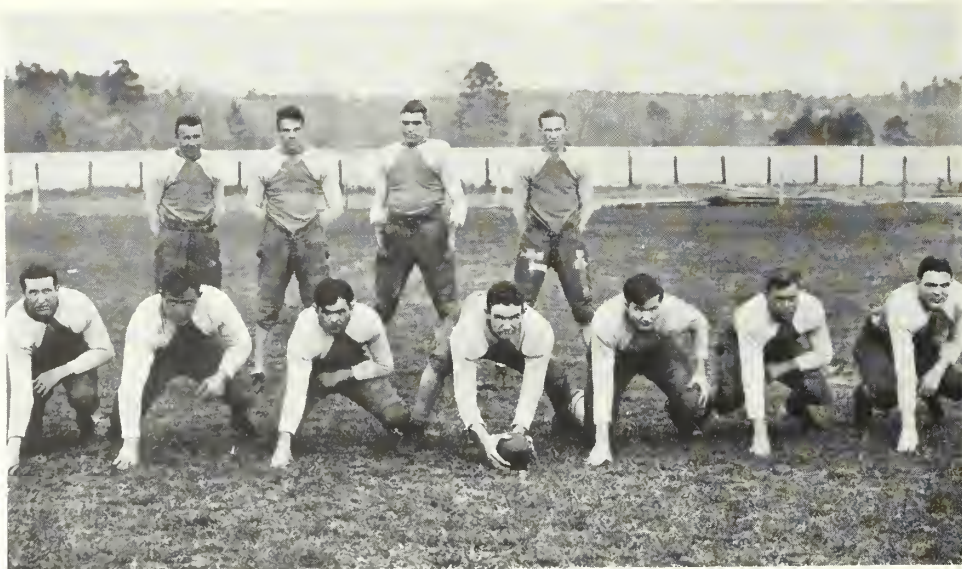

By this time the Lumberjacks were thoroughly riled up over their inability to score on other teams. But if the 'Jacks had any winning aspirations that day, they were doomed to disappointment, for this time the foes were the Denton Eagles, who later became conference champs. Time after time the purple clad boys made tackles in the Eagle backfield, but all efforts were in vain. The Denton boys had a diversification of play and a line that took us under. The Lumberjack offense showed to a better advantage this day than on any previous occasion, but their task was to penetrate a veritable stone wall.

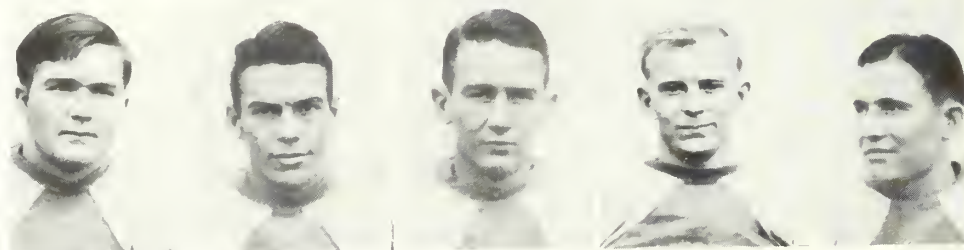

In their game with Kingsville A. & I. the 'Jacks managed to push over a score but were unable to stop the repeated Javalina thrusts and went down fighting 46—7. However while losing this game the Axmen created a certain respect for themselves in the Hog camp. The Kingsville boys will long remember the Lumberjacks for their terrific hitting that day.

Most of the Lumberjack football history should be written about the game with Huntsville. This was the game that ended a successful season, brought promise of a turkey dinner, and left everybody happy. The whole story can be told in four words: Lumberjacks 3, Bearkats 0. Each 'Jack that day made every possible sacrifice for Coaches White and Dossey.

The purple jerseyed boys displayed a remarkable repertory of both offensive and defensive tactics that completely held the Kats in check and scored three points for Alma Mater. The three points came from Captain Thrash's toe in the last quarter, and from that time on, it was impossible for the Bearkats to gain inside the Purple's ten yard line. The Lumberjacks knew the Bearkats so well that day that they broke up Orange plays with a regularity that soon became monotony to the Prison City boys. Heads up football, attitude, ability, strategy, and that old fight brought the season to a glamorous finish. "Alls well that ends well."

Resume of the 1932 Basketball Season

The Lumberjacks opened their 1932 basketball season with a series of pre-holiday games which included encounters with the Kelley Field Fliers, the Demons from Natchitoches, La., and the Southwestern Institute Pirates.

The Purple squad won from the Fliers 65—28, dropped a game to the Demons 16—31, and copped a pair from the Lafayette quint 30—19 and 40—22.

After the holidays the Lumberjacks resumed their play by losing another game to the Demons on the local court. However, in the same week, the 'Jacks took a pair of hard fought games from the Hill-Billies of Daniel Baker.

On the nineteenth of January, the Axmen won their initial game in the newly formed Lone Star Conference from the San Marcos Bobcats 29—25. Street and Hawkins were the outstanding performers in this contest.

The next conference foes were the Bearcats from Sam Houston, who caught the Stephen F. Austin cagers in a crippled condition and carried off the big end of a 31—12 score. The entire 'Jack squad was badly off form, and the team was materially weakened by the illness of Captain Harrington.

By virtue of their triumph over the Denton Eagles 27—26, the Lumberjacks really became contenders for the conference crown. In this game the 'Jacks demonstrated their championship mettle by fighting their way up and by winning from an apparently stronger team. Paul Street's crapper in the last second of play pulled the Axmen one point ahead.

During the next week the Lumberjacks had a breathing spell from conference competition. They were not idle, however, as they dropped a close game to the strong House of David team, and on successive nights breezed through a pair of tilts with the Kingsville A. & I. club.

February 8 found the Axmen in the Bobcats' lair, where they met defeat 26—22. This loss left the Lumberjacks with a percentage of 500, and their chances to cop the title flag was considered nothing more than a bare possibility. But the fighting spirit of the Purple and White had not been reckoned with, and the boys again took up their winning ways at the expense of the Trinity Tigers. In this game, which the Lumberjacks won 53—24, Kerr, the all-conference forward, scored a total of 24 points, thereby setting an individual conference scoring record.

The overwhelming victory over the Tigers restored the confidence of the Lumberjacks whose combined efforts three nights later brought about the downfall of the East Texas Lions 41—36. It was in this game that Stagner hit his stride for the first time in the season, and accounted for ten points which turned the tide of victory in favor of the Axmen.

On February 19 the 'Jacks began that memorial road trip that called for four games in six nights. When the local quint left Nacogdoches, they were in a tie with the Eagles for first place, and were conceded little more than an even chance in the race. Nothing daunted, however, Coach Shelton and his men, backed by the Sawyers 40 strong, invaded the Prison City and downed the Bearkats 26—21. Stagner again starred, but the feature of the game was the sensational guarding by Hawkins.

As a result of their win over the Bearkats, the Lumberjacks went into the Denton fray with a full game lead over the Eagles. The scoring spree put on by Kerr and Stagner coupled with air-tight guarding by the remainder of the team was sufficient to net the Axmen a 29—25 win.

Coach Shelton's charges were now in high spirits, and were performing with the precision of a machine. On the night of February 23 the now highly excited studentbody of Stephen F. Austin worked itself into a frenzy when word was received that the Lumberjacks had cinched a tie for the conference title with a 26—22 win over the Commerce Lions.

Only the Trinity Tigers, who up to this time had not registered a single conference win, remained in the path to undisputed championship. Success was just around the corner, and only an average amount of importance was attached to the game. True to predictions, the Lumberjacks, although played down by their prolonged road trip, trounced the Tigers to win their first conference championship in basketball.

Improving with every game, the Lumberjacks at mid-season had overcome their none too impressive start and were well on their way in a successful quest for the crown. The past basketball season inaugurated the new Lone Star Conference, and the 'Jacks by winning the title, not only demonstrated their present status but sounded a signal warning of their potential power in the future.

Out of a large group of candidates, nine men were lettered, but the entire squad shared in making this a most successful season. As practically the entire squad will return, the chances that the Lumberjacks will repeat their success next season are exceptionally bright.

1932 Track Season

Up to the time that this book went to the press, there had been no track meets. However, through the efforts of Coach Shelton there had been a very attractive schedule arranged in anticipation of a strong team.

At the present time the Lumberjacks are favored to carry off first honors at the conference meet which is to be held the first week in May. The scene of the meet this year is Commerce, and there will be plenty of competition there at that time.

Stephen F. Austin boasts their strongest track team in several seasons, and at the time of the writing of this article, has some thirty aspirants working out daily in preparation for the coming meets.

Among the last season men who are the mainstays of the team are: Donnell (captain), distance man; Bob Gillespie, middle distance; Adams, sprints and weights; Robb, weights; and Stagner, pole-vault and high-jump.

In addition to these men the Purple still boasts a wealth of material. Several good men are coming up from the last season Freshman squad, foremost among whom is Bob Phillips, dash man par excellence. Two other men who should be valuable to the Lumberjack cinder path squad are King and Permenter, both dash men. Although these are the main members of the team, there are other point getters worthy of mention in this account.

At the present time we are in no position to show many records, but we can confidently predict a Lone Star Conference championship for the thinly-clads of Stephen F. Austin.

LETTERMEN

Among this great array of cinder path performers there are five men who will be lost to the Purple and White at the end of this season. They are: Captain Donnell, Bob Gillespie, "Windmill" Phillips, J. B. Adams, and Stagner.

Donnell is a three-year man who excels in distance runs. He will be the leading man for the two-mile run in the conference meet this year. His absence will be keenly felt on the campus as well as on the track.

Stagner is another man that will do his part to bring the championship to S. F. A. He is a conference champion in the high jump.

Bob Gillespie, J. B. Adams and Phillips are outstanding performers for the Lumberjacks in addition to commanding positions of respect in the activities of the college.

Resume of the 1932 Tennis Season

With the advent of the 1932 season Coach Long was more than satisfied with the prospects. Although only two lettermen, Thrash and Terry, were back, the team as a whole appears to be better balanced than in any previous season.

The Lumberjacks enjoyed only a fair degree of success last season, but the team as a unit shows great improvement.

This season the Purple and White will compete with two conference champions: Huntsville, winner of the T. I. A. A. last season, and Trinity, winner of the Texas Conference, of which both schools were members last year. This situation will be interesting as it will afford a comparison of the two conferences. For the current year the two schools are in the newly formed Lone Star Conference.

The new point system in scoring, which has been adopted this year by the coaches, should prove a benefit to the Purple and White racket wielders.

At the present time competition is keen for ranking on the local squad, with six players seeking to represent their Alma Mater. The boys are taking advantage of the fine weather and the concrete courts, and are looking forward to a highly successful season in conference competition.

Why Natural Gas ?

Dependable Natural Gas service gives any community tremendous advantages in attracting new residents and promoting industrial development.

More than a hundred Texas cities and towns are served by facilities of the United Gas System — an inter-connecting network of producing wells, pipelines, compressor stations and city distribution systems under unified control.

Superior for all industrial uses, Natural Gas brings modern comforts to any home where it is used for cooking, water heating, refrigeration and house heating.

Our Natural Gas facilities serve the Stephen F. Austin State Teachers College. Wherever heat is needed Gas is the Better, Quicker, Cheaper Fuel.
